Speaker Linda S. Velazquez

Vita Linda S. Velazquez, ASLA, GRP, LEED AP, is founder and publisher/editor of Greenroofs.com (1999). She writes and reports extensively about greenroofs and living architecture, including the annual “Top 10 List of Hot Trends in Greenroof and Greenwall Design” since 2007. She holds a Bachelor’s of Landscape Architecture from the University of Georgia (2000, cum laude) and an Associate of Arts in Business Administration (1982).

Greenroofs.com is an internet news media organization: the international greenroof and greenwall industry’s resource portal. Our goal is to inform, promote and inspire the earth friendly technology of organic greenroof architecture through the free interchange of ideas, projects, news, video, travel, research, organization/government updates, and marketing opportunities. Exclusive features include contributing editor and guest posts, the Sky Gardens Blog, and the “Project of the Week” and “Company of the Week” features with exclusive video. Greenroofs.com publishes The Greenroof & Greenwall Projects Database, a free international community resource currently with about 1,700 profiles; The Greenroof & Greenwall Directory of Manufacturers, Suppliers, Professional Services, Organizations & Green Resources; and the GreenroofsTV channel on YouTube.

Greenroofs.com produces the biennial Greenroofs & Walls of the World™ Virtual Summit: Connecting the Planet + Living Architecture, expanding the growing community of living architecture professionals and creating a global social media experience for learning and networking via the power of the Internet. Join us online for our forth Virtual Summit from April 9 – April 30, 2017.

Linda’s role as Greenroofs.com publisher affords many opportunities to promote the industry; she has been published in numerous books, journals, magazines and online media as well as presented across the globe. Linda is also principal of Sky Gardens Design (2004), a greenroof design and consulting firm.
